Artificial Intelligence Is Not Coming For Us—They're Running the Show

This should piss-off most. Who, but an ultimate narcissist already in hot water, Donald Trump, could be such a damn fool as to admit on video to passing around a highest security, National Defense Information invasion of Iran document? Then later, bumbling on FOX, comes across like a middle schooler explaining a handgun found in his locker.

Trump can't get out of his own way. He picked-up (on a recommendation from Sean Hannity), Mike Pompeo for Sec/State, as a peacemaker? He made William Barr, who is now ready to testify against him, as his AG? Charged in South Florida, 'scene of the crime', where the 'right to speedy trial' is enforced, Trump finds himself without solid legal representation (both lawyers recused themselves after the indictments were issued), with a trial date 70 days from the day of the indictments. He is in the crosshairs.

With a glance in the direction of Julian Assange (who Trump ought to have pardoned), who is also being charged under a 'deep state' tool, the Espionage Act, Trump needs to recognize the gravity of his situation and the inhumanity of his accusers. Is he relying on 'findings' that the indictments are 'politically-motivated election interference'?

Going after Trump, Biden (as he is doing in Ukraine), has shot his wad—and now he's in trouble. Americans, in a purported majority, see his family as 'influence peddlers', trading the republic for profit. Along with Joe as an alleged 'traitorous grifter', his son, Hunter, now 'gifted an escape from justice', is seen as something of a monster.

There is no constitutional basis for a 'deep state'—no 3 letter agencies appear in the Constitution. But what does appear is the Executive and its Chief Operating Officer, the President of the United States. 3 letter executives exist at the president's pleasure—as information sources for the president. Truman created the CIA for his morning briefing.

We are told charges against Trump are serious, but are they—constitutional? Consider that the CIA, formed post WW2 to 'brief' Truman, allegedly grew into the monster it has become, through 'drug profiteering'—to where, now, it can have the President charged and possibly convicted/incarcerated for divulging to the American public (or simply holding), an invasion plan for Iran, that by its very existence is unconstitutional?

A bigger problem is a US Government/agencies (while doing little that has a basis in 'law'), operate using secrecy/redaction/limited immunity. A modern history of this nation is built around agencies lying to Congress and to the Executive, thinking they have a right/duty, to deceive America to protect unconstitutional, national security ideologies.

Truman disbanded what became the CIA after WW2 because they did a lousy job. But that did not stop them. They continued on (under Dulles brothers), pardoning high ranking Nazi SS officers, to carry out their extraconstitutional plans to maintain a Reich in Germany to fight communism. With this kind of legacy, agencies want Trump in jail?

It's a sad thing that the few who could have cleaned house, Kennedy/Trump—didn't do it. Missed opportunity to call J. Edgar to the oval office to have Marines walk him to the gate. Or, the Dulles brothers arrested. Trump missed his Hillary grand jury moment.

After WW2, what became the CIA did not conform to its new role. Instead it allegedly 'dealt drugs' using Mafia bosses Meyer Lansky and Lucky Luciano in the US, and Chiang Kai-shek (Formosa/Taiwan), internationally. They couldn't do it with Mao because communists say no to drugs. But Chiang opted for the money, and the Mafia was all in.

It's always the way of it: you start out with a 'great little republic' until power brokers (such as: CIA—a 'terror organization with roots in drug trafficking'?), take it away from you. And they don't care how they do it. On their own (through secrecy) they support 'regime change'; they attempted to keep the 3rd Reich 'up and running'; they bring (almost vanquished) heroin back—to addict/kill off the US 'jazz scene'—for fun and profit.

This they do because they have no ethics or humanity—as in the heartless devastation they now inflict on Ukraine, and actions against January 6th 'victims' (protesters) being nothing more than another coup, patterned on Ukraine Maidan. There 'crony' protesters, taking over government buildings, were depicted as heroic, and through force of arms, US taxpayer funding, hubris and lies, a duly-elected president was deposed in favor of a stooge. Now they're playing-out that same movie on Donald Trump.

We hear Trump is in for it this time. Maybe so. He is for sure his worst enemy, with a level of bravado that at the wrong times is totally out of control. That said, politics is an ugly business, and Trump, being Trump, is preferable to the 'horror' that is the 'left'.

Trump is an American nationalist, which for anyone with active brains cells is preferable to 'global collectivism'. But, in a larger sense, the issue here is a distinction between AI and humanity. AI is intelligence without humanity, as opposed to human beings with discernible levels of ethics as it relates to human values. 'Leftist' power-brokers are soul-less, heartless/cunning, while Trump, 'warts and all', is a human being.

The 'only' thing an American president can offer us now is to seek peace with adversaries, avoiding an unnecessary/insane WW3. Even if all we get from that is to stay home watching our economy collapse without added annoyance of mushroom clouds.

What is likely to play out here? Rachel Maddow will not have her dream come true, that Trump, for a 'get our of jail free' card agrees to not run (apparently 'the left' doesn't know who Trump is). Also, dems have likely overplayed their hand, solidifying Trump as the likely Republican candidate—who, by law, can both run and govern from prison.

Whatever his faults, Trump's concern is for the nation and its citizens. For his AI adversaries, peril looms. Biden gets to preside over the US economic collapse and, either loses the war in Ukraine, or, as the prime instigator of endless war—or a quick WW3.

Now, an unpopular Biden has to deal with losing to another Kennedy, Robert Jr., running as a peace candidate, insisting his father/Uncle Jack were offed—by the CIA.

Biden faces the farce of pardoning only his family, or in a show of false magnanimity, pardons everyone: Assange/Snowden/Trump. More likely, Trump's bluster doesn't end the Ukrainian war in "24 hours"—but he finds a way to do it. Then he pardons himself.
