updates on the insane world of money and power

Both Ends Against the Middle

There is no question that the left is sick—that Trump became president for a 2nd time because Harris is the dumbest person ever nominated to run from either political party. But, under the Trump reign, it's becoming obvious that the right are conducting a full-blown effort to match the left—as brain dead. If it isn't obvious to you by now, MAGA (casting itself as American), is an unAmerican, unconstitutional faction in support of Israeli Zionism.

For pundits who can't quite admit this fact to themselves, while recognizing Trump as carrying on with Biden's policies (as it becomes obvious Trump commits aggression), for the sake of American power, and to save the dollar—they hold-off on being willing to judge.

Back home in the States, we are hopelessly divided—with the wagons circled right and left—with left (needing therapy for depression), more the loonies. 70% of Americans are against war with Iran, but Trump's approval rating seems to maintain at 40%. Like pundits who can't bring themselves to call-out Trump, Americans close their eyes—hoping for oil-war spoils.

What's apparent to those who watch is that we're playing for all the marbles, as incremental increase of hostilities moves the world ever closer to WW3. As Israel wreaks havoc on the global economy by attacking not only Iranian distribution sites but upfield production. Unconcerned for a global economic collapse, Israel needs to win this—big.

Trump follows Israel's death wish—acting-out the role of a whirling dervish. He needs the help of NATO—he doesn't need NATO. He writes off a world that won't help open Hormuz, but he doesn't need help. He calls Putin who offers frank, but not friendly advice—calling-out Trump's blunder.

Russia and China can't let Iran go down—still they hold back from getting in too deep. Will they be the poster boys for why it happened—people didn't stand up until it was too late? Is there a difference between what Trump is doing to Cuba, Venezuela, Iran, than Hitler's takeover of Austria/Poland? Is the US (under Trump)—what's that line in the Beatle song? 'in the middle of negotiations, you break down.' The re-write—slightly different: 'in the middle of what were never negotiations, you commence with slaughtering children.'

This is for all the marbles and Iran is the object of slaughter based on lies. So, what do they to do next? Let Russia and China know clearly that if Iran goes down, they are next. Based on that, close Hormuz tight because the future of Israel/US needs the Strait open by Memorial Day. Concerning this, 'whirling dervish Trump' is fully aware.

Israel's playing for keeps. Iran will do the same, attacking Israel/monarchies desalinate water plants—anything that supports US/Israel. Showing no quarter, as decapitation aggression, built on lies, is but murder.

The Hegseth doctrine of maximum lethality, signed onto by Trump, is a war crime. It negates there ever was a Geneva Convention or Nuremberg (where Nazis were tried to show the horror). What's the penalty for knowingly/recklessly committing war crimes? Death. Under US code, both Pete Hegseth and Donald Trump, for various war crimes, could be subject to death. Not only them but any service member who kills someone by carrying out an unlawful order (unless conducting operations under fire to save lives of American personnel), is complicit in a war crime. Anyone pushing buttons. Consider the attack on Iran—the negotiator from Oman (as well as the Iranian team), were certain they had given enough ground for a deal. But no, there was never a deal—there was only enough time to assemble assets to conduct genocide/murder on Iran.

The US is hopelessly divided into 2 camps, such that all things rational are under attack. For example consider the left advising the military to refuse unlawful orders. This is something constitutionally fundamental in the US military. But why's the left making that advisory? Is it in support of the Constitution or politically motivated? Given the left were silent for 3 years under Biden (no diplomatic contact with Russia), while a million Ukrainians were being slaughtered—that advisory lines up in a political column.

But what of the substance of the advisory? What are the US military, operational codes. Decades ago, our military focused on intelligence. Global targets were mapped such that the US did not commit war crimes by hitting schools, hospitals, and religious gathering places. All strikes, either missile/bomb were vetted, updated, and re-vetted.

Now, Defense Secretary Hegseth, having abandoned accepted rules of war, with the full support of Trump, opts for maximum lethality. This means carpet bombing a nation the size of Western Europe—with little or no intelligence having to do with targets or what constitutes a target.

Trump sees murder as 'just for fun'? He knows that at least 2 Tomahawk missiles hit a Tehran, girl's elementary school, and a 2nd hit incinerated more than 170 kids and their parents who, after the strike, came to the school to collect their children. Trump and his team (first denied it with absurd rationals), now tell us they're investigating. What that means: check back in 20 years, better yet never. Does never work for you?

What can Americans do? We can first remember how many times MLK jr. went to jail for his cause. We Americans have that responsibility. There's nothing a president/congressperson/senator/judge can do—unless they borrow a page from Shia Islam or Russia in Ukraine, willing to martyr themselves for sovereignty. And get martyred we will—in an America that almost openly admits the CIA killed JFK. Best stand up—before you're next.

Having had enough of murderous lies, Joe Kent resigned from the Trump team. This ought to have been the first in a cascade of resignations—but no. Tulsi, testifying to Congress dodged the truth, saying Trump, after being briefed by intelligence made his own decision. What's missing is who Tulsi was a year ago, when she would have laid out what recommendations she offered as head of intelligence—those that Trump chose to ignore.

Between Iran, and Hezbollah (dormant but not defeated), tiny Israel is being destroyed, while the US flails away at Iran hoping something they throw at Iran completes the job.

What's the post-apocalyptic outlook for the republic? For those who shut-down at the mere mention of the Constitution/Bill of Rights, I forestall mention of our founding documents for something more palatable: as intended by our founders, what can we Americans do to keep the power in hands of the people? Hardly anyone objects to that statement. Next time—what could be done to save the republic?
