

neverhadaboss.com

updates on the insane world of money and power

Lest We Forget

As we come to the end of 2024, it serves us to remember what happened during 2024, and prior to 2024—in the time of Covid. Consider recent history in terms of Aaron Rogers, who was, at the beginning of the SARS 2/flu, the quarterback for the Green Bay Packers—and one of the greatest quarterbacks of all times. So, who was Aaron?

What was Aaron about? Ever the perfectionist, he was one of the hardest working athletes in the NFL, who wanted to excel beyond football, which caused him to explore any and all things that aroused his curiosity. But for this article let's just stick to football.

At the beginning of the SARS flu, and the mayhem of mRNA intolerance (at the behest of evil bastards and blind followers), when asked if he was 'vaccinated', Rogers said he was 'immunized'. During the same season he was named MVP, Rogers suffered possibly the greatest attack/degradation of anyone who wouldn't take the mRNA.

Take a closer look at his answer to the question: "Have you been vaccinated?" He answered: "I've been immunized." And, there was no follow-up question. He was lying, but in the same way one might lie to the Gestapo when asked: "Where are the children?" Could you not salve your conscience if you answered with: "What children?"

As it turned out, Aaron was correct. Those who went along with the fear-mongering establishment and got 'vaccinated' may have traded health/natural immunity for a lie. Those of us who knew the FDA/CDC as cheerleaders for Pharma, regulators no longer concerned with the health of Americans, were also aware that 'vaccine trials' were of a few days duration or not at all. We made a stand—relying on innate, natural immunity.

Rogers' questioner assumed 'immunity' to be synonymous with 'vaccination', which we now know is not the case. With no follow-up question for him—I'm okay with the lie.

I mean, cmon—this is a different country than the Dasher/Dancer/Prancer/Vixen I grew up with—a long way from Roy Orbison and the Beach Boys. Now, we live in a hall of mirrors, intended to obscure the truth, drive us mad—and finally eliminate us.

For a time, Aaron was a media dartboard for hate. Now, with the rats scurrying, he is no longer the focus. But, don't for a moment think that any of us that read the kind of thing I'm writing today are not slated to be part of an experiment—built around horror.

Because the martial law that was imposed has fallen back, we think we've achieved a kind of victory—and can go back to leading our lives. Not at all. If we learned only 1 thing this last 5 years—it's that we are forever in the crosshairs of the left, and sadly, some on the right. And, we are slated to have our liberty ripped away—maybe worse.

Human beings are hopeful creatures, out to make the best out of whatever comes our way. Maybe we need hope to survive, but 2025 will be a time to focus on reality.

The left, having lost an election they took for granted—are now bloodthirsty fiends. Catch a little of what Obama has to say—there is no longer even a hint of slow-talking dignity. Instead, he is better identified with Antifa aggression. And, with unconcern for the rule of law, the globalist left are willing to do whatever it takes to continue their control over us. But, if we assume Trump's victory is going to save us, best we think again.

The best we get from Trump is a respite—maybe just a skosh of the rule of law. Law that does not apply to any who protest on campus/or in the streets in support of whomever Netanyahu is slaughtering that week. Trump, if fortunate, might do some good in Ukraine (on Putin's terms), but there's little indication he's inclined to do anything to stop slaughter in Palestine, Lebanon, Syria. Or, when the time comes—Iran.

As the left schemes to keep Trump from being inaugurated, the possibility that Trump will be able to do what needs to be done becomes less likely, because of his ideology—but more importantly—the facts. The US can no longer dictate outcomes—only the narrative. So far, the US been able to set the central narrative across institutions—and re-affirm it. Controlling the domestic media, totally, and global media, less, but enough, to where a constant barrage of lies/usurpation has reached critical mass.

Trump's ideology, sadly, rests to a great degree on an idea that America calls the shots and everybody follows—an ideology that supports lunacies: the US blew up the EU pipeline for inexpensive Russian energy, and, were they to object about buying our energy, under the banner of might makes right—we would tariff the hell out of them.

I'm not suggesting we disassociate from Trump—but for God's sake—retain your skepticism. If you were skeptical of mRNA, if you were skeptical of Obama/Biden, or skeptical that the war in Ukraine was caused by Putin, or skeptical of Netanyahu's genocide proclivity—retain your sanity with a healthy dose of skepticism about Trump.

All the while thankful that Trump (for now), got rid of the left, because nothing would serve a vicious left better than a string of internment camps located in isolated areas of the West. Places built around torture, places of no return—designed with you in mind.

Do you remember when most Americans were in favor of re-education camps or an even sadder fate for questioning minds—unable to be successfully re-educated? That was the plan then and now—behind a threat to mandate/forcibly compel Americans to queue-up for any/all elite dictates. Stuck in stall-mode for now, it's ready for prime time.

No one is going to protect you—that's up to you. Trump is a big government player, suffering from Elvis syndrome (the King knows best)—bragging to tariff at will, while viewing Canada's sovereignty as something to acquire, the Panama Canal as something rightfully belonging to MAGA. Greenland—an American island just off our coast.

Would our founders line up with MAGA? No, they would end HS, CIA, pull troops from 80 nations, de-weaponize the dollar/Swift. They would de-weaponize sanctions/tariffs—knowing that excessive tariffs are a cause for global enmity, while, at the same time, they undermine dollar reserve-currency status—while dooming the dollar's future.

Trump is the Person of the Year—he truly is. But so were Hitler and Stalin. How Trump proceeds with global competitors will tell the story. A successful art of the deal needs to be rooted-in diplomacy. And a sense of justice—requiring that Trump listens.

Get my articles by email with a request: erik@neverhadaboss.com. And thank you.