

neverhadaboss.com

updates on the insane world of money and power

There is No Art of the Deal—Just a Shakedown

There is no art of the deal, just a shakedown from an insane Donald Trump. His responses during interviews tell the story. He either lies, or has become as forgetful as Reagan, when he says he never assured Americans there would be no more wars. He did that, on stage—many times. He promised to bring an end to the endless warmongering that destroys our nation.

‘I call the shots,’ he says. No you don’t. You stated, many times, you would be the peace/no regime change president—that was your promise. For whatever reasons, Netanyahu calls the shots—you just act as if you do.

When interviewed by the network echo chamber, they toss Trump soft ball questions, reminding him he was the peace president during his 1st term. That’s BS, he was bombing and setting up future massacres by getting rid of the Iranian JCPOA and nuclear test ban treaties with Russia.

Reagan was a peace president when compared with Trump. When Israeli Prime Minister Begin was bombing Beirut—photos of a little girl with her arms blown off, Reagan called Begin to tell him that if he wanted an entirely different relationship with the US, just keep doing what he was doing. Begin called back to say the bombing was over—the message had been received.

Israel never seeks peace through diplomacy—the sole mission for Israel is military attacks to expand Greater Israel. Years back, Israel rejected a US mutual defense pact because it necessitated that Israel define its borders. Israel would rather attack and seek US forgiveness. Even the 1967 war, sold as self-defense, was a lie. Prime Ministers Begin and Rabin admitted years later that Egypt's Nasser had posed no threat to Israeli security.

While Israel is losing support globally, support among Israelis remains strong. If neocon Robert Kagan is sincere in his assessment that the US has not only lost the Iran War but is to be hopelessly crippled by it, what could be more disingenuous? Is Kagan just another rat running down the guy wire of a sinking ship? Why wait until the war is lost? Kagan and his wife, Victoria Nuland, are major players in making the world unstable. Robert, wasn't your wife, Victoria, the force behind Ukraine's destruction?

We are besieged with shameless liars. Gaza, Bibi (with his predecessors), did that. Nothing but lies since 1947, forcing the Palestinian people into concentration camps, with an intention to wipe them out—for an underlying end game where Gaza/West Bank no longer exist. It's all Greater Israel.

Trump and Netanyahu have a plan. Bibi's goal is to stay out of prison using mass slaughter. Trump backs him for whatever reasons? Is Trump motivated by Zionist donors. Or is it Epstein? Epstein's control of US politicians is being downplayed lately, but I have my doubts and keep my doubts.

Then there are those who persist with a notion that Trump's acting-out is part of the art of the deal. It's not. Trump has proved himself to be among the more prominent, geo-political, elite idiots.

Trump says Iran has no cards. We shall see. With no military plan to break Iran, and the Houthis agreeing to close the Red Sea (raising non-movement of oil by another 50%), US economic heat will be hell by summer.

Trump's conduct is becoming absurd. There are no negotiations. Iran is paying no attention whatever to Trump or Netanyahu. Iran knows that sanctions (in force for 46 years), will not be ended by the US. Only powerful and nuclear nations, China, Russia, Iran, North Korea can stand-up to US actions. Because it's transparent to China that Trump's focus is to cut-off Chinese energy supply, Xi Jinping ordered companies to ignore US sanctions.

Trump is conducting a global shakedown racket, using sanctions and threats, where, because of US/Israel coercion, most global news organizations function as echo chambers for Big Brother propaganda.

Trump's deals, where nations agree to invest 100s of billion of dollars in US business/arms, are funds needed for their own economic development. These mafia payoffs, using threats, put the whole world, and BRICS, at risk.

Trump's rationale for his Iran mayhem is nothing but a rationale. There's been no threat from Iran to build a nuclear device. Enriching uranium to 60% (not the 90% needed for a bomb), was an Iranian ploy to get the US back to the JCPOA agreement. In fact, the Ayatollah that Trump murdered had a 2002 fatwa against nuclear weapons—as being antithetical to Islam.

Trump, who's insisted for months that Iran is near its breaking point, conceded Friday that Iran retains some missile/drone capacity. In an interview with NBC News, he said about 21-22% of Tehran's missile arsenal remains. He doesn't know that. He's in Neverland, making it up—because he's nuts.

Trump wants to give Iran's frozen assets to Gulf monarchies to rebuild. But, what was destroyed were American bases used to destabilize the Middle East—paid for by the monarchies. Build them back on Iran's dime?

This isn't war—it's murder. Rubio will do whatever to get rid of Cuba, and Venezuela/Iran pose no threat to the US. But oil-producing nations pose a threat of an ever-powerful China and an impediment to the Greater Israel project. Given the facts, Trump's Bunch: traitors to the US Constitution?

It begs one's sanity when acts of murder, funding genocide, and unconcern for global political/economic sustainability (human existence), are the plan of the day. If, for whatever reasons, my readers justify the actions of King Trump the Tyrant, I'm okay if you unsubscribe. Though I fully defend your 1st Amendment right to free speech, I'd rather you enjoyed your constitutional blessings of liberty someplace out of earshot—where I can't hear you.

Enough of this, more articles need to address economic reality. What is going on? It can't be there's a silver dearth and the price keeps falling. It can't be that central banks buy more gold than ever and the price of gold plunges—can it? Where's the underlying reality and when does reality make an appearance to show the true worth of gold and silver?

Bill Holter made a comment today in an interview about self reliance—which was expected of Americans during the 50/60s. I've been thinking the same thing, writing and comparing that time period with now. Next article.

After that, I've been perplexed as to my faltering relationship with Christian readers. Is it a biblical necessity to not call out Trump/Netanyahu over their respective slaughters in the Middle East? Would calling out horror go against an Old Testament edict that God gave those lands to the Jews?

The world is increasingly messed-up, day by day. Takes me back to my youth, to a Buddhist spiritual leader's answer to a question about ignorance: 'One cannot enter the dreaming mind of another.' That now seems certain.

Maybe just a thought about the metals. Most metals, precious or not, are undervalued. This will change, and when it does, it won't be incremental or slow. There is to be a silver, gold, copper, etcetera wake-up, not over years, but months. How high will gold/silver go? As far as the dollar is set to fall.

Subscribe (unsubscribe), to (from) my articles, comment, or just say hello: erik@neverhadaboss.com. Thanks so much for the support you give me.