updates on the insane world of money and power

'Unanswered Questions'—Replaced by 'Unquestioned Answers'

My title is owed to an actual climate scientist, Dr. Willie Soon. Motives behind contemporary events are seemingly inexplicable. Utter madness along our Southern border continues with US NGOs funding illegal migrants. And, abject defeat of Ukraine's army is no cause for peace talks. And, every Republican Senator voted to debate a WHO treaty, intended to give our national sovereignty over to a WHO that shared responsibility for loss of lives during Covid. But every Democrat Senator voted against the debate.

As the curtain lifts and we see what plays-out behind it—the truth be told. Willam Greider wrote in the 90's that the last great battle for takeover by 1 World Government would be fought in the US. Globalism cannot prevail while the Constitution is in place.

That said, it's easier to understand why seemingly inexplicable events are employed. Each remains inexplicable, only until each is weighed against the real goal of the actors: destruction of Western society, national sovereignty, and America—in particular.

History tells the tale. Whether it be national socialism or communism, would be tyrannies first need to spread chaos and fear, so as to divide and conquer, then control.

Let's focus on one—Climate Change, which, for the average person is difficult to understand. Because it's obscure, it's effective for elites to sow fear, making possible a Covid-style lockdown—but this time necessitating a climate emergency—without end.

Scientists who see through this charade cannot get funding/publishing. This affects their own work, and shrinks the pool of graduate students willing to risk unanswered questions when their economic future depends on accepting unquestioned answers.

These questions need addressed constitutionally, but for today let's focus on climate change—illogic. Begin by asking why the Ford Motor Company loses $142K on every EV, or, what's the significance of Biden building charging stations at 1$ billion a pop?

Just do the math: Biden's new mandate calls for 3X as much energy from solar and wind (which combine for 3% of total energy production).  $3 \times 3 = 9\%$  of total energy—at present. Can you run your life on 9%? Is there no plan—or maybe some horrific plan?

If elites want to sow chaos, there's nothing better than reducing energy production, exponentially. That's a eugenicist dream. Billions would die—but it's for the good. And self-styled saviors, Schwab, Gore and Kerry will likely not be around to take the blame.

Why is nuclear energy off the table? Elite goals do not include adequate energy. So, nuclear energy, even if produced safely, provides no answer for a Malthusian mission of population reduction. Elites are unconcerned about quality of life for 8 billion plebes.

A shift to safe nuclear energy could provide needed energy for thousands of years—but it's not gonna happen—not in the US. Here, that shift would cost, because of red tape/regulation, 1500X as much as in Asian nations. Besides, elites have another plan.

Chaos at our Southern border is used to spread chaos, to divide and conquer. But the elite efficient plan is climate change hysteria. If successful, they can achieve their goal of reducing the global population by half, through starvation/suicide—in short order. With an election looming, we may be treated to a climate emergency this summer.

Americans succumbed to Covid lockdowns: will they go along with a new set of lies? Or, will they step-up to overcome their fears, resisting travel bans and 15 minute cities?

How are the lies being sold? Climate change scientists gather information in urban heat sinks. Were they to measure rurally and combine the 2, the results would be different. This information is then used to support the Michail Mann hockey stick model.

Mann's graph shows global temperature as a hockey stick handle, with small fluctuations until the stick bends straight-up where it meets the puck/ice. Seemingly, a persuasive graph, except the warming trend began long before humans created CO2.

From my vantage, it's all lies. CO2 is not the destroyer of life but the creator of life—and I surmise CO2 has nothing to do with climate change. Just as hockey stickers don't deal with historical temperature fluctuations, neither do climate change scientists.

Are those selling a myth of climate change doing what they do purposefully or are they just stupid. I'm betting on both. Their mission is an assumption that humanity has to be put under control and depopulated. To that end, ethical consideration be damned. The unquestioned answers are in, and to carry out the mission they have been chosen.

Like the Fed, Climate Change models are obsolete and don't work, because they fail to include temperature data before the Industrial Revolution. They deny the 'little ice age' because it doesn't fit their narrative. The 'little ice age', otherwise known as the Maunder Minimum, occurred during the 1600/1700s when the sun was much dimmer because sun-spot activity was greatly reduced. Sun spots have ebbed/flowed, down through history. At times, there are a great amount of solar flares—at other times there are few. This is the cause heating and cooling of the Earth—without regard for CO2.

This is why at times, Greenland is green, and at other times a blanket of ice-floes and glaciers. These processes have gone on throughout Earth's history. We cannot understand the story of weather without including its whole history in our narrative.

As with other elite narratives, climate changers advocate to shut-down debate. Elites do this in 2 ways: 1st, they cancel-out those scientists who are not on their payroll (when in fact the only ones we should be listening to are those not on the payroll). Then they enlist any on government payrolls, in support of climate change testimonial.

But science is not about polling. Science ask questions for which it doesn't have answers—in an ongoing exploration. Now, instead, a tyranny of the few uses its power and control to negate and replace questions of science—with unquestioned answers.

Get ready because this is all coming to a town near you, along with a push for your kids to intervene militarily in Ukraine, and mRNA necessity for an imminent bird flu?

Everything in this article that is part of the elite narrative has no legal basis in the US Constitution or the Bill of Rights. And though I continue to paint with a broad brush, our founding documents will need gone through in coming articles to demonstrate illegality.
